

Letter Of Rejection

Date:

Dear Author,

Thank-you for submitting Title(s) to Rufo's Dog. Unfortunately, your submission(s) was/were not accepted for the following reason(s):

(Below are some general examples which will not be expanded upon.)

- Wordiness – e.g. run-on sentences or overuse of colons, and semi colons, etc.
- Similar to other work, or had too much of a fan-fic feel.
- Too many grammar, spelling, and or punctuation issues.
- Too much violence/sex/gore.
- During the read-aloud edit, text and or dialogue sounded forced.
- Did not fit into the genres we publish.
- It is too long or short.

(Below will be more specific examples, if any. e.g.)

- We found Title to be more depressing, or just plain dark than macabre, which we like to have an element of fun to it.
- The science fiction or fantasy setting was not central enough to the story, which was more about (insert subject).

Please note these observations are in no way personal attacks on you. We're very grateful for your time and attention.

Please feel free to re-submit an updated version of Title, or any more stories you may have that might be suitable and meet our submissions guidelines.

Sincerely,

The Team at Rufo's Dog.
